

How are floor and ceiling registers used?

Floor registers are part of your heating and ventilation system. They give you an important way to regulate airflow within your home.

Here are some of the ways Imperial Floor Registers can add comfort to your home:

- Maintain uniform temperatures from room to room
- Direct air flow away from certain areas
- Isolate rooms that you don't need to heat or cool
- Block cold air from entering the home from the basement
- Help circulate cold air from the basement to cool the home
- Move warm air produced by a wood stove to the upper floors

